

Above—Marshal Foch and Gen. Pershing at the head of the parade of 50,000 American Legion members, who marched through cheering crowds in Kansas City.

International.

At right—The war chieftains photographed at the dedication of the Liberty Memorial in Kansas City. Left to right: Gen. Jacques, Gen. Diaz, Marshal Foch, Gen. Pershing and Admiral Beatty.

International.

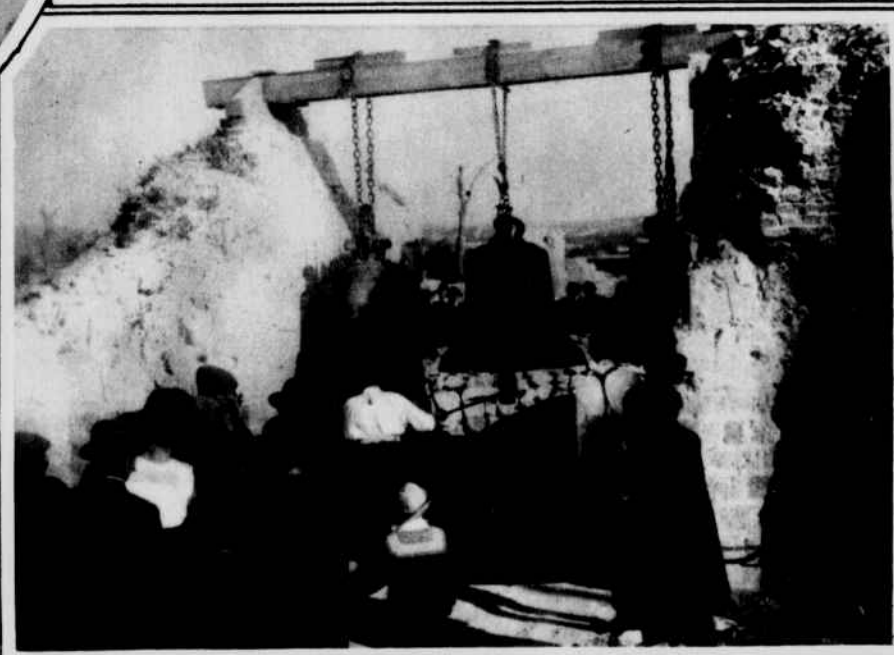

Kansas City girls, robed in white, dedicate in silent invocation the great Liberty Memorial, which will cost $2,500,000.

International.

The hills of Kansas City afford a fine setting for a great spectacle. This photograph shows part of the vast assemblage that attended the dedication ceremonies.

International.

The bells still ring in all that the war has left of the village church at Clery-sur-Somme in France. The work of reconstruction will soon begin.

(c) Kadel & Herbert

Washington youngsters are having great fun with a newly born quartet of tiger cubs that have arrived at the zoo.

(c) Kadel & Herbert

Here is Aviator Zimmerman of the Montana American Legion, who flew to Kansas City with a young bobcat as a present to Marshal Foch. The Marshal has the bobcat.

Official convention photographer from U. & U.

Right Hon. Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Mrs. McKenna, photographed as they sailed for home on the Adriatic.

Underwood & Underwood.